Project description

The form is for members of Alcohol Ranking Collection, a site for comparing drinks and sharing reviews. It collects account details, profile information and preferences. The implementation uses only HTML and CSS, with native browser validation.

Evaluation and reflection

The form was evaluated with a heuristic review and browser checks, rather than a participant study. The review focused on clear wording, error prevention and consistency. Required fields are marked, while optional details can be skipped. Each control has a label, related choices use fieldsets, and hints explain the rules before submission. Keyboard checks covered the skip link, Tab order, radio buttons, the slider and visible focus. Native validation rejected empty required fields, an invalid email, a weak password, an out-of-range birth date and an invalid budget. The layout was checked at 320, 390 and 768 pixels, with no horizontal overflow. Text contrast was also calculated. The review led to clearer field hints and a fix to the agreement error message. A remaining limitation is that HTML checks cannot verify email ownership or username availability. The form therefore ends with a demo confirmation. A useful next step would be testing it with people outside the group.

Wireframes

The following pages show the desktop and mobile wireframes created before implementation. The final form keeps the three sections and changes to one column on narrow screens.

CREATE ACCOUNT

Community rules and short project information below the form.

Two columns for short fields. One column for longer controls and feedback.

Mobile wireframe

The same content follows one reading order on a narrow screen.

Layout notes

Short fields stack into one column.

Labels stay above their controls.

No horizontal scrolling.

Options wrap onto new lines.

The submit button is full width.

Hints stay next to the field.

Errors use text and a border.

Keyboard focus is visible.

Validation plan

HTML required / email / pattern.

Date and number limits.

Native browser error messages.

CSS feedback after interaction.

No JavaScript or libraries.

Boxes show structure, not the final colours or exact control heights.
